

THERESA MAY IS NOT THE PRIME MINISTER WHO MAY...

RobbisMocool September 12, 2016 News, World 41 Views

A challenge facing a new head of the UK government today – the one for which Theresa May has been nominated for the Prime Minister – is to fulfill the British people's wish regarding the UK withdrawal from the EU. To bridge over difficulties of transition period, to minimize short-term losses, to have the migration problems resolved at last, and not to lose, under any circumstances, those opportunities that are now opening up in economic and social spheres – this is the work for a politician of Thatcher's style.

<https://vimeo.com/181786059>

Judging by her statements on the UK security and foreign policy the 'Iron Lady' image has great appeal to Mrs. May.

But in that case this does not accord with some of the practice. Her obvious attempt to divert national